The committee would like to thank the following ACI members for their contribution to this guide document: K. Kesner, G. Stevens, P. Barlow, and L. Church.

This guide identifies and suggests allocation of responsibilities to various parties involved in concrete rehabilitation in the United States; however, the guidance presented may apply to contractual relationships addressing concrete construction in other parts of the world. This guide can be useful in evaluating existing contract documents for adequacy and balance with respect to responsibilities in concrete rehabilitation projects.

In some cases, the responsibilities outlined carry the force of law. In others, there are options that could be incorporated into a particular contract.

Keywords: concrete rehabilitation; contracts; responsibility.
